Summary

I'm a Cloud Engineer and Software Developer passionate about building scalable, reliable, and high-performance systems. I specialize in designing cloud-native architectures, automating deployments, and developing clean, maintainable software that solves real-world problems.

With hands-on experience in AWS/Azure/GCP, containerization, CI/CD pipelines, infrastructure as code, and modern programming languages, I bridge the gap between cloud operations and application development. I enjoy optimizing systems for performance, reducing operational overhead through automation, and collaborating across teams to deliver robust solutions.

I'm continually learning new tools and technologies, and I love creating solutions that are efficient, secure, and future-ready.
